When I Say I am a Christian...

When I say, “I’m a Christian”, I’m not shouting, “I am saved.”
I’m whispering, “I get lost.” That’s why I choose this way.

When I say, “I’m a Christian”, I don’t speak of this with pride.
I’m confessing that I stumble and need someone to be my guide.

When I say, “I’m a Christian”, I’m not trying to be strong.
I’m professing that I am weak and pray for strength to carry on.

When I say, “I’m a Christian”, I’m not bragging of success.
I’m admitting I have failed and cannot ever pay the debt.

When I say, “I’m a Christian”, I’m not claiming to be perfect.
My flaws are too visible, but God believes I’m worth it.

When I say, “I’m a Christian”, I still feel the sting of pain.
I have my own share of heartaches, which is why I seek His name.

When I say, “I’m a Christian”, I do not wish to judge.
I have no authority; I only know that I’m loved.

The Fall Love Feast October 26 at 6:30

Twice a year, Brethren celebrate what the earliest Christians called agape: the outflowing love that seeks not to receive but to give. Jesus taught us this practice when he shared with his disciples a last, loving meal the night before he died. He washed their feet, ate supper with them, drew them closer into the fold of his love and offered them the symbolic bread and cup.

Love Feast closes with a hymn; then follows the humble task of cleaning up, in which we are all invited to participate. When we leave the feast, reunited in our dedication to Christ and to each other, the deep nourishing love goes with us. It serves as a constant reminder that we can help give God's blessings to others; through steady, loving service, symbolically washing the feet of the world.
